

UNDERSTANDING NEW BUSINESS FORMATION

Starting a new business can be an exciting time. As entrepreneurial thoughts and dreams of success flood your mind, it is imperative that you go through the proper channels to ensure the legal formation of your new business entity.

There is a plethora of activities that need to be completed when starting a new business:

- Choosing and forming a business entity
- Creating partnership agreements
- Formulating legally sound, thorough contracts
- Ensuring compliance with state ordinances
- Arranging proper tax structures
- Assisting legal mergers and company acquisition
- Establishing written company policies

If you are starting a business in Colorado, it is important that you consult with an experienced business attorney to guide you through the appropriate legal processes to get your commercial endeavor on the ground running.
