

BREACH OF CONTRACT

UNDERSTANDING BREACH OF CONTRACT

When people hear the word “contract,” they usually think of a lengthy legal document prepared by an attorney that requires the signatures of both parties. While this is sometimes the case, creating a contract is a much simpler process that can be both written and verbal. Many people enter into legally binding contracts every day without even thinking about it.

A legally valid contract contains the following elements:

- An offer is made from one party to another
- The offer is accepted
- Legal consideration is made
- Both parties have mutual obligations
- Each party has capacity to fulfill their duties

When a legally binding contract is breached, a number of issues can arise. Delays, unforeseen conflicts, and financial crises can all result when a business partner or individual fails to live up to his or her promised duties.

Depending on the circumstances of your situation, you may be entitled to seek remedies for your partner’s breach of contract. Eligible compensation will vary for each specific case and can include the following:

- Compensatory and punitive damages
- Court-ordered performance of duty
- Cancellation and restitution of the contract

If you believe that someone is guilty of breach of contract, you should seek legal advice to determine if you have a case.

PREPARATION IS KEY IN ALL BREACH OF CONTRACT CASES

Success matters when dealing with breach of contract cases, and The Vaughn Law Offices is experienced in giving you the legal counsel you need to deal with this type of situation.

Our contract attorneys can provide you with legal counsel, examining the facts of your situation to determine if a legally sound contract was indeed formed. If the contract is deemed valid and if there is sufficient evidence to suggest that the contract was breached, we can help you move toward commercial litigation and represent your interests in a court of law.

Nobody should have to live with the consequences of a business partner's false promises. If you have been wronged due to an unfulfilled contract, it is imperative that you retain the powerful representation of a business attorney from The Vaughn Law Offices.

With constant communication and an intricate examination of each case, our legal professionals can give you the representation you need to improve your chances of securing a desirable outcome for your contract dispute.

Whatever your needs may be, we would be happy to discuss them during an initial consultation.
